Whitney Johnson

Director of Partnerships @ Greater Baltimore Committee
Baltimore, Maryland, United States

Summary

As the Director of Partnerships at the Greater Baltimore Committee, I am responsible for developing and maintaining strategic relationships with key stakeholders in the public, private, and nonprofit sectors to advance the economic and social well-being of the Baltimore region. I have over 8 years of experience in civic engagement and community building, working with diverse and underrepresented populations in various settings and contexts.

Previously, I served as the Associate Director of Civic Engagement at the Center for Social Concern at Johns Hopkins University, where I oversaw the design and implementation of undergraduate student-focused community service and civic engagement programs. I also led the Hopkins Votes initiative, which successfully increased voter registration and education among students and staff across multiple campuses. Before that, I was the Director of Community Engagement at UNICEF USA, where I managed the recruitment and retention of community volunteers and the Global Citizenship Fellowship program, a two-year leadership development program for young professionals in nonprofit management roles.

I hold a Master of Science in Public and Urban Policy from The New School and a Bachelor of Arts in Hispanic Studies from Wheaton College. I am fluent in English and Spanish and proficient in workshop facilitation, cultural awareness, and youth development. I am passionate about creating positive social change and empowering others to become active and informed citizens.
